SUPPLEMENT

1. At a meeting that was held sometime in the middle of January 1947 [redacted] 25X1X6 25X1X6 [redacted] a highly placed Russian political officer [redacted] 25X1X6 stated that the Russians intend to send representatives of the German political parties to the Moscow Conference.
2. In a conversation about former Ambassador Nadolny, the Russian political officer stated that he considered Nadolny an acceptable German for the purpose of representing Germany and giving advice to Russian authorities, but that the latter are at a loss to decide in what capacity Nadolny should be sent to Moscow. 25X1X6
3. [redacted] General Georgiev told Ernst Lemmer that Nadolny is favorably considered by the Russians but that he is too close to various British and American authorities in Berlin.
4. [redacted] in a conversation between General Georgiev and Nadolny, the former stated that Germany will be a "politically independent nation" within eighteen months. General Georgiev also told Nadolny that the Russians intend to begin a complete alteration of their policy towards Germany in the near future.
- [redacted] This alteration may consist of a proposal to withdraw all occupation troops from Germany. The Russian political officer told Source I that Germany will have regained complete freedom in ten years.
